Capacity Euthanasia List

Updated as of 3/16/2026 6:35:17AM

The animals on this list are at immediate risk of euthanasia and this serves as the final notice for them. It is updated daily before 5 pm for the next capacity euthanasia day. Animals listed in B6-SPT have been moved out of their general population kennels to make space for the days intake until humane euthanasia begins at 12:30pm Weekdays and 11:00am Saturday. Although general euthanasia may take place on any of these days, animals with grave medical concerns may be euthanized at any time.

To allow the staff adequate processing and reply time, ALL placement intention emails from ACS-approved fosters and rescues MUST be received via: ACSFOSTER@sanantonio.gov or ACSRESCUE@sanantonio.gov at least 30 mins before euthanasia begins.

Placement requests submitted after these times, to different emails or by rescues, and fosters not currently approved to work with ACS provide no guarantee an animal will not be euthanized.

Animals listed in 'SAPA TRAN' are the primary responsibility of our rescue partner San Antonio Pets Alive! in building #1 on our 151 campus. They are still at risk of euthanasia and may not have confirmed placement. Please email placement@sanantoniopetsalive.org about these animals.

Dog displays sociability by coming over to greet me with a loose body and a wagging tail. He is easy to leash and walk outside where she walks well on leash and is seemingly house trained. He displays sociability with male and female dogs observed with by greeting appropriately and coexisting with a loose body and a wagging tail. He is easy to return to kennel.

03/09/2026

Foster return due to reactivity with children in the home and difficult to crate and breaking the crate.

Dog displayed sociability by coming over for affection with a wagging tail and loose body. He leaned into my lap, placed 1 paw on my lap, and leaned forward to lick my face. He took treats gently by hand and knows "sit". He was easy to leash and walk outside. In the yard he engaged in play with me and came when called for.

When introduced to a crate in an office, he initially was not interested to enter the crate when offered with treats or with guiding him in on leash. He allowed me to pick him up and carry him and was placed into the crate easily. While in the crate, he took offered treats and exited the crate on his own. Afterward, he re-entered the crate voluntarily to retrieve continued tossed treats and exited the crate. After handlers walked away leaving him to interact with the crate on his own, he re-entered the crate, sniffed, and exited on his own. He was easily walked back to his kennel.

03/10/2026

Play Group:

Dog displays sociability with all handlers and with male and female dogs observed with by greeting appropriately and coexisting with a loose body and a wagging tail. He engages in brief play. He is tense with raised hackles greeting some dogs at times where he is able to walk away on his own. When a male dog mounts him, he communicates for space by jumping back, growling, and air snapping and begins following the other dog while he walks away. He is easily redirected from this interaction. He is able to adjust and follows handler with a loose body. He is easy to return to his kennel.

1 of 2 in kennel

Dog was fearful in kennel with a tense body and was walked outside with kennel mate. He growled and put his head over kennel mate's head where he was separated from kennel mate in the yard. He allowed affection from handler and was able to be muzzled and brought into the play group.

He displayed sociability co-existing with male and female dogs with a tense body and drooling where he held his tail high or low depending on different dogs he greeted. He whined at the front gate seeming anxious at times. He was returned to kennel.

03/12/2026

Foster returned due to incompatibility with pets in home

Dog is laying down upon approach and sits up as I enter kennel with a loose body and a low wagging tail. He is easy to leash and walk outside where he is seemingly potty trained. Dog has wide eyes and flinches at any movement upon first approach. As I enter the kennel, she retreats to the other side with a tucked tail and turns around quickly to face me, while sniffing the air with tucked ears. She eats tossed treats and after some time, slowly comes closer, and begins eating them out of my hands. She allows me to pet her with a low tail and she is easy to leash and walk outside where she is seemingly potty trained. She is easy to return to her kennel where she comes to me with a loose body and allows me to pet her head and behind her ears.

03/06/2026

Foster returned due to incompatibility with other pets in home

Limited evaluation due to medical - no dog/dog interaction at this time

Hello, meet Maxine!

This girlie has had a rough start and she is looking for a home to help her get back on her feet....er, paws.

Maxine originally came to our care as a injured stray earlier in February. She can be anxious of new people and picky with her canine companions. But once Maxine gets used to you, you become her person and favorite thing in the world. Her injured leg doesn't slow her down - please consider taking her for a walk to get to know her better! Or simply sit with her and let her know you want to be her friend.

Dog is nervous upon approach laying down with tail and legs tightly tucked underneath her and she avoids eye contact. As I sit in the kennel with her, she allows me to offer affection and remains fearful with the same body language. Coming back later, she retreats as I approach and slowly comes back over to sniff my hands and treats. She is not interested in offered treats and walks away from them. She briefly allows me to scratch her chin prior to retreating.

With handler working with her, she was able to be leashed where she paused and laid down nervously. She was able to be carried outside and came over for affection leaning into handler's lap. She slowly walked back to her kennel with verbal encouragement and taking many breaks. She paused and laid down again and was carried back to her kennel.

1 of 2 in kennel

Dog displayed sociability with handler once separated from kennel mate by coming over for affection with a wagging tail and was able to be leashed and walked outside. When handler attempted to interact with both dogs, dogs seemed frustrated with each other by baring teeth.

He was walked outside and greeted other dogs at the fenceline with a tense body and wagging tail lunging, barking and growling towards other dogs and was returned to kennel. He was easy to return to kennel. Once reunited with kennel mate, they engaged in brief play and walked in the kennel together.

Shamrock went on a Shelter Paws!!

Where did you adventure to today? Tell us the story!

We went to the Helotes park. We met other people. I learned that Shamrock loves humans & loves to receive pets. Shamrock & I walked/jogged the track. He did a good job matching pace. After the park we went to my house & played in the backyard. We played with his squeaker toys. He ate food for lunch & got treats as we practiced commands. He did an amazing job riding in the car.

Check which things your doggo is good at!

Running/Hiking/Walking

Car Rides

Toys

Doing Tricks

Cuddling

Being Around New People

Being Calm and Laid Back

Going Potty Outside

How did your doggo walk on leash?

Pretty good - almost perfect.

What is the best thing about your Shelter Paws doggo? He listens well, has energy & loves affection.

What is something your Shelter Paws doggo could work on? Shamrock was shy to get into the car. I had to help him & lift him into the car. He could use some work getting into cars. Once he gets inside he does extremely well on the ride/drive.

Dog is nervous upon approach by retreating away from me with a tense body, lowered head, and a lowered head while avoiding eye contact. She is interested in high value treats offered to her on ground and moves closer to me for continued treats with same body language. She is leashed and walks out of kennel slowly with a tense body, lowered head and tucked tail. She continues to walk through building as I walk behind her. Once outside, she freezes on leash with a tense body, wide eyes and a tucked tail. She flees from other handler with a tense body, wide eyes and a tucked tail as they hold out hand to greet her. She attempts to mouth leash where she is easy to redirect. She is not able to be prompted back to building and is easy to pick up and carry inside. She urinates as she is carried back to kennel and leash is easy to remove. Behavior due to under-socialization and/or environment.

Dog displayed sociability with handler once separated from kennel mate by coming over for affection with a wagging tail and was able to be leashed and walked outside. When handler attempted to interact with both dogs, dogs seemed frustrated with each other by baring teeth.

He was walked outside and greeted other dogs at the fenceline with a tense body and wagging tail lunging, barking and growling towards other dogs and was returned to kennel. He was easy to return to kennel. Once reunited with kennel mate, they engaged in brief play and walked in the kennel together.
